

Every couple is different, and that's the most important place to start. Your priorities, your budget, and what you actually care about should drive every decision. We've seen couples spend more on food because they're big "food people," others go all-in on music because they want the dance floor packed all night, and some just want it to look incredible.

splurge VS save

Photography + Videography

These are the only things you keep forever. When the weekend is over, your photos and video are what bring you back to it. This is not the place to cut corners.

Food + Bar

Guests will always remember if the food was great... or not. Whether it's elevated catering or a really fun late-night snack, this is a big part of the experience.

Invitations + Paper Goods

Beautiful doesn't have to mean expensive. There are amazing semi-custom options, and most guests won't remember your font choices.

Favors

If it's not edible or usable, it's usually left behind. Skip them or keep them simple.

splurge VS save

Music / Entertainment

A great band or DJ can completely change the energy of the night. If having a packed dance floor matters to you, this is a big one.

Planner (hi 🙌)

A good planner saves you time, stress, and often money. Especially for tented or complex weddings, this is one of the best investments you can make.

Guest Experience Touches

Transportation, welcome drinks, thoughtful timing, and comfort details (like shade, heaters, bathrooms for tented weddings). These are the things your guests feel all day.

Over-the-Top Decor Everywhere

Pick your moments. You don't need to go all-out in every single space. Focus on where guests spend the most time.

Bridal Party Extras

Gifts, matching outfits, etc. can add up quickly. Keep it thoughtful, not excessive.

Cake

(if you're not cake people)
If cake isn't your thing, don't force it. Do a small cutting cake and serve something fun instead.
